

Giving thanks for the Harvest

A Rocha Kenya's beekeeping programme is working with 100 farmers across five villages in Dakatcha Woodland. This year, our Harvest offering will enable a representative from each village to be given a beehive and training, as well as enable ASSETS beneficiaries to plant 250 native trees in and around the nearby Arabuko-Sokoke Forest.

We're on our way to our target ...

Meet Pola and Kadhengi. Recently they received two beehives, as well as training that will enable them to increase their income and reduce their dependence on unsustainable forest products.
